LARGE AND SMALL OF IT. Danny Jorgensen, Stallings sixth grade tubist, and Heather Tolbert, Wilson fourth grade alto saxophonist, combine their talents to add to the 100-member Elementary Combined Band which will perform along with Junior High and Senior High bands at the All-City Band Festival Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium. About 350 students selected from seven bands will enjoy a day of musical activity under the direction of the conductor from Northwestern University, John Paynter.

Dedication ceremonies are planned at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 20, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center's new mental health facilities, a 50-bed psychiatric wing constructed at Niedringhaus and Washington avenues.

The $4,500,000 facility will be the scene of a public ribbon cutting ceremony and dedicatory program. Tours then will be conducted from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Sister Mary Thomas, SEMC president, said.

Robert Hardy of Radio Station KMOX will speak at the dedication. Refreshments will be served.

The public also will be welcome at the opening of the psychiatric wing at 4 p.m. Thursday, May 17, when Bishop Joseph McNicholas of the Springfield Catholic Diocese will conduct a Mass and blessing.

With the history of the local hospital dating back to 1904, a 75th anniversary observance is in progress this year.

Sister Mary Thomas has commented that the new building, connected to the hospital by a basement corridor, is "designed to bring to the public quality treatment, and to help break the barriers of misunderstanding of mental illness."

The new building is scheduled to be placed in use on June 1. Some of the rooms have partitions which enable the two adjoining double-occupancy rooms to be converted into four-patient dormitories.

During 1978, patient days at the Medical Center increased to 116,333, laboratory procedures rose to 791,188 and radiology procedures grew to 81,740. There were 15,581 admissions, 18,927 electrocardiogram visits and 49,273 outpatient visits. In 1967, the same figures were 81,638, 20,301, 23,859, 12,132, 7,172 and 24,754.

Revenue and expenses each totaled $22,586,424 during the past year.

Fuel woes may grow

Governor James R. Thompson has urged Illinois fuel consumers, particularly motorists, to "respond, but not overreact" to the fact that there will be less fuel available in the next few months than is normally consumed.

The governor said he has concluded from discussions with major oil firms serving the state, and with a number of Illinois government staff members in the energy field, that "in the next few months we will have less gasoline, diesel fuel and heating oil available in Illinois than we usually consume."

He said about 22 million fewer gallons of gasoline will be available during May than in this month a year ago.

Speaking at an energy conference sponsored by the Illinois Institute of Natural Resources in Chicago Thursday afternoon, Thompson said the gasoline shortage this month will amount to about three gallons for every registered car in the state, 45 miles of driving for the month, or a mile and a half less a day.

The governor urged Illinois motorists to recognize that gasoline and other fuels are a national matter, not one controllable in Illinois alone.

He stressed, "Other states cannot take gasoline from Illinois. And I will not ask the citizens of Illinois to sacrifice for California."

"I pledge to you that I will do all within my power to see that the federal government and the oil companies treat Illinois equitably."

Thompson outlined four areas of action available to Illinois:

1. Voluntary energy conservation, including conscious efforts by individuals, government and business to use less fuel, through strict observance of the 55 m.p.h. speed limit, inflating tires to maximum rated pressure, proper vehicle maintenance, moderate acceleration and braking, and leaving air conditioners off.

2. Ride-sharing programs, car-pooling and use of public transportation also can ease the gasoline shortage situation, Thompson said.

Study sanitary district funds

The accountant for the Metro-East Sanitary District has been requested to complete an audit of all the district's bank accounts for study by the district's board of trustees at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Washington Park.

The audit is to aid the board in determining if a plan by Executive Director A. Wendell Wheadon to continue the district's operations at "full-staff" are practical, in light of financial difficulties.

Last week, 80 district employees were laid off for a lack of funds.

During a board meeting Friday, Wheadon estimated revenue for the rest of this fiscal year at $1.58 million and stated projected expenditures, with workers back on the job, will be $1.5 million. He was asked to put his projections in writing for review by the board.

Armed robbery of walking couple

A man and woman reported they were walking together at 1:32 a.m. Sunday in the 1600 block of Market Street, Madison, when two men came out from behind a tree and ordered, "Lie down and don't move."

The victims could not see who the robbers were, but from their voices judged them to be 30 to 40 years of age.

The man said he tried to raise up to see and one of the men fired a shot.

After taking $100 in cash from a wallet, the pair fled in an orange car west on Market Street.

Those robbed were Winston Bell, St. Louis, and Valerie Washington.

Anti-rabies shots urged

Woman saved

Two Madison County Sheriff's Deputies rescued a woman from her car last week on State Aid 35 just after it had overturned in a creek and filled with water.

Deputies Harold Wilson and Richard Anderson, who is from Granite City, are credited with saving the life of Mrs. Wilhelme White, 43, Fairview Heights, after her car overturned in a large ditch near Holiday Mobile Home Park.

Wilson, Anderson and Deputy Tom Hammond were on patrol in the area of State Aid 35 and Route 111 when a motorist told them of an auto overturned farther east on 35.

When they arrived on the scene, Wilson said, a bystander told them he had seen no one come out of the car and saw no signs of life inside the auto. "We just figured it was all over with her."

Just as Anderson and Wilson approached the car, Mrs. White's hand reached out from the rear window. "That was some feeling," Wilson said, "all of a sudden seeing that hand reach out."

The two deputies went into the 4 1/2 feet of water and forced open a side door to the car and found Mrs. White inside, her head bobbing just above the water line. For at least a short time she had been completely submerged. She was hysterical, Wilson said. "She kept saying, 'I'm drowning, I'm drowning.'"

The deputies assured her she was all right and carried her to the side of the road.

After the deputies first saw the hand from the rear of the car, Hammond called for the Long Lake Fire Department to respond; the victim was already out of the car when they arrived.

Long Lake firemen did, however, give Mrs. White emergency first aid until an ambulance from the Granite City Fire Department arrived to take her to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. She was treated for a cut to her chin and pain to her left hip and leg, her neck and a shoulder. She declined to be admitted.

Illinois State Police, who investigated the crash, said Mrs. White was eastbound when the auto left the roadway and overturned two or three times before coming to rest on its top in the creek.

Anderson tended to low-key the rescue. "We were just doing our job," he said. "I just want to go home and change clothes," he said at the scene.

INDECENCY CHARGED
Hyman N. Gray, 33, of 1901 Spruce St., was charged with indecent exposure at 7:50 a.m. Friday, after a man and woman walking to work in the 1800 block of Edison Avenue reported Hyman committed the alleged action while he was seated in a vehicle.

24 HOUR SERVICE

Council, made up of state agency directors and chairmen, are now completing a set of Conservation measures for state government which will be announced later.

The governor urged all local governments in the state to examine their procedures for conservation means.

And he cited the "gasohol" testing being undertaken now by the Illinois Bell Telephone Company as an example of the kind of leadership business can take in stretching its use of scarce petroleum fuels.

2. Mandatory conservation, if voluntary efforts fail to produce adequate savings. No specific plan is drawn, he said, but he has called a staff meeting for Thursday, May 17, in Springfield to include representatives of state's gasoline dealers and oil companies and to seek ways to minimize problems for motorists at the gasoline pump.

Fuel woes

The governor stressed that motorists should not be tempted to "top off" their tanks with repeated two or three-gallon purchases. He said the topping-off phenomenon must be discouraged in Illinois, because it stimulates panic buying.

3. Emergency set-aside program, one already in operation as the first in the nation.

Since 1974, the big oil firms have been required to set aside three percent of their gasoline and four percent of their diesel fuel, home heating oil, kerosene and other products and keep them in storage.

The Illinois Institute of Natural Resources can make set-aside fuels available to meet emergency needs not obtainable through normal supply channels.

In April, for example, 910 requests were made under the set-aside program, including from mass transit agencies, farm wholesalers and a tugboat pushing an oil barge upriver. The Institute distributed 3.8 million gallons of gasoline in April, two million gallons of diesel fuel and 1.4 million gallons of home heating fuel oil from its set-aside reserves.

4. Maintain convenience and equity, avoiding the "California syndrome" of panic-buying of motor fuels. The governor said that whether or not a calm buying pace is maintained will be up to the energy consumers of Illinois. He said he will be working with his Energy Emergency Contingency Council to devise steps to be taken if the shortage becomes more acute.

"Our present situation — despite our growing concern — is not in any way desperate, but we can make it so. Or we can take steps to make it bearable."

"I will do my part, as will the many elements of state government upon whom I have called."

"The citizens of Illinois, as well, have a role to play," he said.

School cuts

Vickers informed the board members. Grade school teaching posts eliminated will be in the fourth, sixth and seventh grades.

The plan will combine some fifth and sixth grade students into one class and some seventh and eighth grade pupils into another class, while keeping one class each in the fourth through eighth grade levels.

Under this plan, the elementary principal will be retained, but will be utilized in relieving a teacher who also could instruct in high school art, the board members said at an earlier meeting.

A second plan proposed in March had combined the elementary and high school principal positions.

Miss Hazel Smith, a home economics teacher who is retiring, probably will not be replaced, Supt. Vickers said.

Letters of resignation were accepted Thursday night from Gary Craig, a high school English teacher, and Alberta Robertson, a teacher's aide.

Under the plan to go into effect with the start of the 1979-80 school year, average class sizes will be between 31 and 33 pupils, the administrator said.

A second plan considered earlier by the board would have eliminated the post of grade school principal and a fourth classroom teacher. The result would have increased class sizes to an average of 44 pupils.

A retirement ceremony for Miss Smith, who has been in the school district for over 35 years, is planned for 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Supt. Vickers said.

The board set its next meeting for Wednesday, May 23, an advance of one day from its usual date.

The change was made due to graduation ceremonies scheduled May 24 at Venice High School.

Federal disaster assistance sought for flood damage

The Press-Record learned today that Granite City will seek about $400,000 in federal disaster relief funds and St. Elizabeth Medical Center is planning to ask for $200,000 in funds for damage connected with spring flooding in the community.

The Federal Disaster Assistance Administration will hold a meeting at 2 p.m. Wednesday on the Fifth Floor of the St. Clair County Courthouse, Belleville, for municipal officials in Madison County which suffered damage from spring flooding.

The federal agency declared Madison County a disaster area May 4, making the county and its municipalities eligible to receive federal assistance for recovery from flood damage.

Purpose of Wednesday's meeting is to brief authorized representatives of each municipality interested in applying for disaster assistance and to have "notice of interest" forms signed, according to Nelson Hagauer, Madison County Board chairman.

Individuals in Madison County who have sustained damage to property or business due to flooding may apply for federal grants or loans Tuesday and Wednesday only at a Disaster Assistance Center, located at the Bunsen Community Center, 555 East D. St., Belleville.

The center will be open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on both days.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the toll-free number 1-800-322-2111.

He allegedly was found hiding inside the American Legion, 1825 State St., in the early morning hours Jan. 14 when police responded to a burglar alarm. A window had been broken to gain entry and sliding doors in the hallway were broken open. The coin box to a juke box had been pried open and a door handle was removed from a freezer in the kitchen. Police said a pillowcase containing $231 in cash and change was found in the bar.

Cutting remarks about my lawn

The grass is as high as an elephant's eye, and no relief in sight. If someone doesn't cut it soon I won't be able to find my front door.

My husband must have a passion for grass. He hates to see it suffer being cut, or so it would seem.

I am not above cranking up the old mower myself, in fact, most of the time, the job of shearing the yard goes to me. But having been sick for two weeks, I have not been able to drag myself out there.

What to do? I think my husband is afraid of our lawnmower. Every time I mention what a fine day it is for dragging it out, he heads for the hills.

Can't say that I blame him. Cutting the grass is not exactly my idea of a fun way to spend two hours of my day. I would rather have a tooth pulled.

He did ask a neighborhood kid what the charges would be to have the grass cut and was given a most outrageous figure. Now, I am not against a little free enterprise, but $10 for mowing the lawn is a bit much.

So here we are, back at square one, and the grass just keeps on growing. I keep telling him that if you mow the yard every week, the job isn't all that hard. I mean, after all, we have a power mower.

Vet here it is, almost the middle of May and the lawn has not had its first cut of the season. That is absolutely disgraceful. I am embarrassed by the situation but unable to do much about it.

The neighbors, I'm sure, have begun circulating petitions to have us either cited or run out of town on a rail.

The neighbor on one side of my house made a neat little row of short grass on his side of the property line. That caused a very strange effect, sort of like a wave at Big Sur stopping short.

All the fuss over the lawn has made me wonder why people spend the money they do to make their grass grow, only to convert it into a flat top with a mower.

My lawn has much more resemblance to wilderness than any other I have seen, however, and I think I much prefer the flat top. My husband seems to like the wilderness better.

Don't know what I'm going to do about the grass situation. I hear that snakes like tall grass.

Maybe if I fake snakes...he really hates snakes.

Band festival to feature 350 young musicians

Three hundred and fifty young musicians will combine their instrumental talents on Saturday, May 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the Memorial Gymnasium, forming an elementary band, a junior high school band and a senior high school band for the 1979 All-City Band Festival.

The combined bands are rehearsing, with each band's selected personnel getting together several times before meeting the guest conductor, John Paynter. He is director of the Northwestern University Marching "Wildcat" Band and the Symphonic Band in Evanston.

The combined Elementary Festival Band honors the young musicians from the Lake Division Band, under the direction of Raymond Boreland.

The combined Junior High School Band is made up of selected personnel from the Coolidge Junior High Band, under the direction of Elsie Mayhew, the Grigsby Junior High Band, under the baton of Vivian Rafaele, and the Prather Junior High School Band, under the direction of Mary Davis.

The combined Senior High School Band features selected students from North High, under the direction of Robert D. Todoroff, and South High, under the direction of Terry Waller. Director Paynter will rehearse all three bands during the day, Saturday, providing the instrumental students with "a master touch of direction which comes from vast experience and an expertise in working nationally with such groups," a school spokesman said.

"The concert Saturday evening will be a summation of the instruction received throughout the year, and the combined efforts of the local directors and the guest conductor."

"An hour of musical power is in store for those who attend this musical event, now in its seventh year."

Tickets for the concert are available from any elementary, junior high or high school band student. The admission cost is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Broader aid for abortions

Illinois Public Aid Director Arthur F. Quern has announced that the Federal District Court has ordered a change in policy regarding payments for abortions under the Medical Assistance (Medicaid) program.

Under the court order effective immediately, for those eligible for the Illinois Department of Public Aid Medical Assistance Program, the department must pay for abortions that, in the professional judgment of a licensed doctor, are medically necessary.

Previously, the department paid only for those abortions to those necessary to save the life of the mother is unconstitutional, as denial of equal protection under the 14th Amendment. The court also ruled that funding provisions of the Hyde Amendment are unconstitutional under the 5th Amendment.

Diminishing the need to sleep

Researchers at the College of Medicine, University of Illinois at the Medical Center, Chicago, are hopeful of finding a natural chemical or a pharmacological agent that will diminish or abolish a person's need for sleep.

In addition, "Once the chemical differences between the sleeping and waking brain are known, one will be able to manufacture a sleeping pill that will induce natural sleep," says researcher Miodrag Radulovacki, M.D., Ph.D., associate professor of pharmacology.

Dr. Radulovacki is using cats to investigate brain chemistry during sleep and wakefulness. As part of his studies, he has developed a brain technique that involves insertion of a tube (cannula) to draw out and sample the cerebrospinal fluid in the cisterna magna of cats during various stages of sleep without disturbing the animals.

Recently, his research has pointed to a substance in the normal brain that, when administered to animals deprived of sleep, partially substitutes for sleep loss.

Known as dopamine (DA), the substance is one of a group of compounds called catecholamines.

"What we want to see is whether stimulation of DA brain receptors by chemical means or replenishment of DA brain depots can produce wakefulness that will not merely suppress or delay sleep, but will substitute for it," Dr. Radulovacki said. He added that persons suffering from a neurological disorder called Parkinson's disease are treated with L-Dopa (which produces dopamine in the brain).

"These patients sleep less and do not need to compensate for any loss of sleep. In other words, there's no sleep rebound," he explained. Earlier studies by other investigators have shown a correlation between the various stages of sleep and wakefulness and different biochemical secretions in the brain.

Specifically, biogenic amines produced by nerve cells within the brain serve as neurotransmitters, regulating activity within the various sleep stages as well as the cycling of such stages.

Sleep research pioneer Michel Jouvet, Ph.D., concluded that a collection of nerve cells at the midline of the brainstem — the "nuclei of raphe" — are a source of the neurotransmitter serotonin, which is believed responsible for the onset of sleep (the slow-wave sleep stage).

Slow-wave sleep is the sleep that precedes the paradoxical or rapid-eye-movement (REM) stage of sleep, when most dreaming takes place.

Dr. Jouvet also hypothesized that norepinephrine (NE) — containing cells of the locus ceruleus in the brain generate the rapid-eye-movement sleep. NE, like dopamine, is a catecholamine.

"We are still trying to discover what happens chemically in what structures of the brain during sleep and wakefulness," he continued.

"We know certain chemical changes occur and that these changes act selectively on specific areas of the brain — but we have yet to pinpoint the changes and the structures involved."

"Once researchers do pinpoint these changes and how they affect the various parts of the brain, we can then learn how to mimic these changes, to do what nature does."

"Since we don't know yet the true function of sleep, there is a hypothesis which postulates that sleep is needed to restore some chemicals (particularly NE) in the brain that are used up during the daytime."

"If this is the case, once the chemical difference between the waking and sleeping brain is known, one could use chemistry to replenish chemistry, not sleep."

Besides leading to the development of natural sleeping pills and drugs or pills that could maintain natural wakefulness, precise knowledge of the workings of sleep chemistry could open doors to the treatment and cure of sleep disorders such as insomnia (little or no sleep), hypersomnia (excessive sleep) and narcolepsy.

Elderly Madison building gets a new look

Flowers bloom on the wall

The old building at 1316 Madison Ave. was going to be a church back in 1902. It never became that. Instead it has been many things, from a cracker factory to a warehouse. Now it has changed faces again and is the newest nightclub in the area.

In order for the massive old building to go from a rundown 77 year old building to a spot for live entertainment and pinball, a lot of renovation was necessary. The most startling change is the huge mural which graces the brick wall at the back of the building.

The mural, approximately 12½ feet by 15½ feet, is the focal point of the entire club. Flowers bloom where a bricked-in archway had been. The archway, most likely a throwback to the building's church beginnings, has taken on colors and shapes that make the eye travel immediately to the area which is the background for the stage. The mural was done by Pat Sweeney, a Collinsville lady who was commissioned by the new owners of the building, Wayne Gurn, Dale Martin and Norman Morel.

Over 200 hours of work went into the mural, mostly evenings and weekends. Miss Sweeney used white latex wall paint to cover the old brick. She then custom mixed her own colors in the same latex to create a durable design of color and shapes.

According to the owners, the bricked-in archway behind the stage was bare and so uninteresting that they figured it needed something. A friend of Miss Sweeney's suggested that the artist might be able to do something with the wall and the idea of a mural soon followed.

The old building on Madison Avenue has undergone quite a change. It is now called the Bastille, and the new owners promise that it will be a place where people can go, dance, play pinball, and have a little fun.

Miss Sweeney puts the finishing touches on the mural, which took 200 hours to complete.

Ainad parades and circus to attract many thousands

Circus Chairman Mark Moreton predicts the 12th annual Southern Illinois Shrine circus sponsored by Ainad Temple, to be held in Granite City and Belleville, will be the finest producer L. N. Fleckles has ever put together.

Circus and regional parades are planned in downtown Belleville on June 1 beginning at 8 p.m., and downtown Granite City on June 5 starting at 7:30 p.m. Intense float competition is developing.

Potentate R. H. "Dick"

Erway of Granite City, leader of the 8,500 Nobles of Ainad, says the committees have kept in mind the people who like the "circus world" and have arranged for the top acts currently featured in touring circuses.

Moreton, the high priest and prophet of the Ainad Divan, has chosen a large number of Ainad nobles to head the committees and they have responded with mammoth circus plans.

Nine shows are scheduled in the two towns, plus two big parades, giving the area of

St. Clair and Madison counties a Mardi Gras atmosphere. Beginning Saturday, June 2, at 8 p.m., will be the opening show at the Belle-Clair Fairgrounds. Another show that evening at 7:30 is planned, and Sunday will find shows at 1, 4 and 7:30 p.m. at the same fairgrounds. On Monday, June 4, there will be a 7:30 p.m. performance. The Circus then moves to Granite City where it will play Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights only, June 6, 7 and 8, beginning at 7:30 at the Tri-City Speedway on Route 203.

The Belleville parade is one of the best attended parades in that Southern Illinois city and there are usually about 35,000 viewers as the two hours of bands, floats and other units pass in review.

The units of Moolah Temple of St. Louis, a sister Shrine temple, will be in both parades.

Quad-Cityans always turn out in vast numbers for the local parade. Some of the circus acts will be Geronimo and his death dive, Barreda's lions, Joselito and his high-wire dancing, Javannah and her African baboons, plus elephants and aerial stunts.

General admission is $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children under age 12.

"You Backed Us and We Succeeded"

Dear Friends:

In 1904, we were new in town...it was the year of the St. Louis World's Fair...times were hard...it wasn't easy getting started. Once we did, we began growing and haven't stopped, even now. 75 years later, we're expanding to serve you better.

We couldn't have made it without you and thank you for that. We've counted on you in the past, and you know, we need your support now and in the future just as much as we did then.

Because we are the only hospital in town, our number of beds give us a cost base to make it possible for us to provide you with excellent equipment, medical staff and personnel.

However, since we are the only hospital in town, we recognize our responsibility to provide you with extra care and concern, and make sure you have the needed treatment available within easy reach. We pledge that to you.

We've included our yearly financial report on this page. Inflation and added services have increased our expenses, however, our cost-containment efforts have been and will continue to be a top priority.

Ribbon-cutting ceremonies for our new mental health unit will be Sunday, May 20 at 2:00 p.m. and tours will be conducted until 4:00 p.m. Please consider this your personal invitation to come, to see and to receive our Diamond Jubilee gift to you—a brand new mental health facility designed to bring to you quality treatment and to help break the barriers of misunderstanding in mental illness.

Thank you for allowing us to stand in your presence and serve you.

Gratefully,

Madison High School is rated high by team

The North Central school evaluation team, headed by A. Gordon Dodds, visited Madison High School for two days earlier this month and rated MHS as a good school.

Citizens indicated that the high school is doing well in responding to local needs. The evaluation committee felt that the work the school is doing to build better relations in the community has been overshadowed in the past by a few isolated incidents. The committee was impressed with the leadership of the high school and the faculty seemed to be responding positively to the leadership of the principal and the assistant principal. The report went on to comment that under the leadership of the district superintendent, the staff seems to be making good progress with the limited resources that are available.

The finances of the Madison School District are limited but appear to be well managed; and the school board and community will need to expand the resources available to the district. According to Dodds, this can be done by more state and federal participation or higher local taxation for the school.

The committee generally agreed that MHS is basically a sound building. The committee was impressed by the efforts of the administration and the faculty to build an educational program which can fit the needs of the students served by the school.

The report further noted that the committee was pleased that efforts were made to schedule classes for slower and also the academically able students, although this often requires smaller classes. The board will consider suggestions for improvement when the full report is received and those involved have had an opportunity to study any recommendations.

Ill. Power playing a big role in kiln gas project; Wood River to be site

Illinois Power Company played a major role in the development of the $100 million coal gasification (KILnGAS) demonstration project at the Wood River Power Station.

Based on the recommendation of Governor James R. Thompson, the Illinois Energy Resources Commission conducted hearings throughout the state on whether or not to issue $18 million on bonds from the state's Coal and Energy Development bond funds to finance a portion of the $100 million construction project. On Feb. 28, the Commission approved the $18 million support of the project.

Illinois Power is one of the 11 Midwestern and Appalachian electric utilities participating in the experimental KILnGAS project (a coal gasification technology developed by the Allis-Chalmers Corp.). Construction is expected to begin next year with testing and the demonstration phases to continue through about 1985.

Operating at full capacity, the gasification plant is expected to consume about 600 tons of coal each day.

The project is designed to show how high-sulfur Illinois coal can be converted into gas suitable for electricity production by utilities in a way that stays within environmentally acceptable standards.

The gasification process relies on a chemical and physical reaction that occurs within a rotating "kiln" or drum.

The kiln is mounted at an angle. Coal enters the kiln through the higher end and is heated; as the drum rotates, the coal shifts downward. During the process, the coal is transformed into a volatile gas. Introduction of air and steam completes the reaction.

As the product gas is purified, sulfur pollutants and other contaminants are captured for disposal along with the coal residue.

The KILnGAS process has the potential for:

- Demonstrating the commercial feasibility of using a new fuel process to generate electricity more economically than high-sulfur coal, which requires expensive flue gas desulfurization units (scrubbers) to meet air pollution standards or low sulfur coal from western states, which must be transported long distances to other parts of the country. The estimate of a 10 percent to 25 percent lower cost of generating electricity with coal gas is based on current environmental regulations and existing technology.

—Holding down electric rates, as a result.

—Creating a major new market for high sulfur coal from Illinois and other states, the market for which is threatened by air pollution standards.

William C. Gerstner, Illinois Power executive vice-president, said:

"Ratepayers and all residents of Illinois and other high sulfur coal producing states will benefit by this investment of research and development funds."

"The selection of our Wood River Power Plant as a demonstration KILnGAS installation continues the use of this generating facility for the investment of research and development of environmentally acceptable and economically feasible ways to use high sulfur coal."

Each of the utilities will contribute some of the funding and each will have the right to later purchase similar gasification plants at their electric generating stations.

The project is unique in that it does not include the federal government as a participant.

The other 10 electric utilities are Union Electric Co., St. Louis; Central Illinois Public Service (CIPS), Springfield, Ill.; Consumers Power Co., Jackson, Mich.; Iowa Power, Des Moines; Monongahela Power Co., Fairmont, W. Va.; Ohio Edison Co., Akron, Ohio; The Potomac Edison Co., Hagerstown, Md.; Indiana Public Service, Plainfield, Ind.; Public Service Co. of Oklahoma, Tulsa; and West Penn Power Co., Greensburg, Penn.

Allis-Chalmers has agreed to repay the state of Illinois up to $8 million on a scheduled basis after commercial sales of the gasification technology have begun.

As a result of KILnGAS and other gasification technologies, a recent trend may be reversed in which the consumption of Illinois coal has declined 38 percent. During the period from 1967 to 1977, the amount of low sulfur coal imported for use in Illinois increased from 18 to 43 percent.

In making his recommendation of the $18 million appropriation to the Illinois Energy Resources Commission, Gov. Thompson identified Western coal imports to Illinois as "an unfortunate situation when we in Illinois have abundant supplies of coal in our own state."

Illinois Power's Porter J. Womeldorf discussed the various phases the project has gone through since the fall of 1976 when it was first announced by Allis-Chalmers and the 11 participating electric utilities.

Each of the 11 utilities was invited to propose a site for the demonstration plant and Illinois Power selected its Wood River Power Station as its nominee.

Its selection was accomplished by a KILnGAS task force of Andy T. Bhan, Doug W. Bullock, Harold R. Heiler, Max E. Holcomb, Bill E. Hunt, Paul T. Hulchison, Larry L. Idelman, Bruce F. Kacer, Jones L. Robinson, Jim A. Tomas, Charles C. Wheeler and Paul A. Zimmer.

Ohio Edison selected its West Lorain station, the state of Illinois, and others, success on environmental permits and a detailed independent review of the demonstration project.

The construction go-ahead is targeted for December 1979.

appointed director-KILnGAS project.

McCaulla reports to Womeldorf. The staffing of the KILnGAS project began in February.

McCaulla will be traveling to other utilities in an attempt to interest them in becoming partners.

Since the construction phase of the project is scheduled to begin sometime in the second quarter of 1980, C. D. Glenn has been assigned as project engineer, and also reports to Womeldorf.

Glenn gives the other utilities someone to contact in order to keep abreast of the project's construction progress. And Bullock, who was a member of the KILnGAS task force is assigned as an engineer on the project and reports to Womeldorf.

The final decision to construct the demonstration plant at Wood River is contingent on full funding of the $100 million project by all participants. Allis-Chalmers, the utilities, the state of Illinois, and others, success on environmental permits and a detailed independent review of the demonstration project.

The construction go-ahead is targeted for December 1979.

Mulch aids garden

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser

Mulches can be a great asset to the garden — helping to control weeds and conserve moisture. In view of a possible hot, dry growing season, mulches may be the difference between crop success and failure unless irrigation is available.

Mulching materials may be organic (compost, sawdust, pine straw, wood chips, corn cobs, grass clippings, straw, peat moss) or manufactured (plastic, paper, foil).

The main advantages of using organic mulches are seen in the summer, while the benefits of plastic mulches occur in early spring.

Organic mulches reduce weed growth, maintain uniform soil moisture conditions, keep the soil cool, and reduce erosion. They also reduce water loss, and water requirements.

They reduce nutrient loss, and fertilizer requirements, reduce losses to fruit rots, keep fruit clean, and add organic matter to the soil as the growing season ends.

Plastic mulches have many of the same benefits, but are used in early spring to promote soil warming and early harvest.

Organic mulches are summer mulches in that they keep the soil cool and reduce moisture loss and frequency of watering.

Apply organic mulches in a layer thick enough to prevent weed seedlings from coming through. Fine materials such as sawdust and peat moss should be applied in a layer 1 to 2 inches deep. Fluffy materials such as straw and hay should be applied in a layer 3 to 4 inches deep.

If you use sawdust as a mulch, increase the nitrogen fertilization about 1/4 to make up for the nitrogen used in decomposition of the sawdust.

Grass clippings make a good mulch but should be dried before they are applied to the garden or spread in a very thin layer. Fresh grass clippings when applied in a thick layer will go through a heat that may damage the crop and give off an odor as they decay.

Straw should be clean and free of weed seed when used as a mulch.

Peat moss is expensive, and has a tendency to become water repellent. Peat moss is better when mixed in the garden soil.

Compost is one of the best organic mulches for the garden and can be easily produced by the gardener. Use mulches on the long season crops where the full benefits of moisture retention and cleanliness can be obtained, or where weed control is needed.

GROWING SWEET CORN
Sweet corn should be planted now that warm weather and drier soils are available. This is corn-planting time and gardeners with space should grow their own.

Sweet corn is adapted to successive plantings. You can make weekly plantings of sweet corn through May, June and into July for an extended harvest season. In following this program, make small plantings that will provide adequate yields for your family's consumption.

Another method of having extended sweet corn harvest is to plant three (3) varieties at a time. By using early (88-72 days), mid-early (74-78 days), and mid-late (80-86 days) varieties, one planting date will yield three harvest periods.

Seed catalogs or catalogs are full of varieties, each listing the number of days required from planting to harvest.

Some of the reliable favorites in this area are Golden Beauty, Early Sun Glow, Spring Gold, Earl of Lincoln, Honey and Cream, Seneca Chief, Golden Cross Bantam, Silver Queen and Country Gentlemen. New Special-use varieties are Early Xtra Sweet, Honeycomb, and Sugarbowl.

There are many other good varieties and these, too, can be grown.

Sweet corn should be planted in multiple rows (two or more) rather than single rows to insure pollination. However, if you want pure yellow corn, do not plant white corn within 50 feet of the yellow.

If you want bi-color corn, plant yellow and white seed in adjoining rows or use a bi-colored variety.

St. Elizabeth praised for quality health care

Remarks by Congressman Melvin Price in the U.S. House of Representatives on St. Elizabeth's Medical Center's celebration of its diamond anniversary:

Mr. Speaker, this year marks the 75th anniversary of the founding of St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, Ill.

For 75 years, St. Elizabeth's staff has provided quality health care to the Granite City area and surrounding communities. No one, I believe, can tell the story better than those who were intimately connected with the history of the hospital, and the following short history tells it best.

I would just like to add my personal congratulations on this milestone and wish the staff of St. Elizabeth many more years of continued success.

For three-quarters of a century, St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, has been serving the metropolitan area across the Mississippi River from St. Louis with quality health care.

St. Elizabeth employs over 1,100 people and has 421 licensed acute care beds. In short, it is a busy place.

When viewing the construction now in progress, as well as that which has already been completed, it is hard to imagine just how close Granite City came to not having a hospital at all.

It is an interesting story, and one that begins even before the hospital was constructed, because to examine the history of St. Elizabeth Hospital it is necessary to look at the history of Granite City as well.

In 1904, as the World's Fair was opening in St. Louis, industry was shaping in Granite City.

Factories which had sprung up around St. Louis had spread eastward across the Mississippi to a fertile area of Illinois bottomland which had been known only as "Six-Mile Prairie," because the small settlement of cabins there was six miles from St. Louis.

Granite City's heritage was a bit different from most other towns. It was, in fact, an "instant city" created through the efforts of two brothers, William and Frederick Niedringhaus.

They were the owners of what was, in the late 1800s, the St. Louis Stamping Company, a prosperous kitchen utensil business.

While vacationing in Germany, William Niedringhaus came across a metal shop producing pots and pans with a satin-like sheen, unlike anything available in the United States.

Niedringhaus paid the shop owner $5,000 to show him the process, which involved ground granite, and returned to the United States to acquire a patent.

Soon, the Niedringhaus brothers had a booming business in what they called "Graniteware."

To produce Graniteware, they built the Granite Iron Rolling Mill in St. Louis, far from the St. Louis Stamping Co. But by 1880, demand for their products had grown so large that the brothers had to look for a new place to expand their factories.

Rather than add onto existing facilities in St. Louis, they decided to build a new plant in less-expensive Illinois. Six-Mile Prairie was the place.

In 1894, after careful planning, workers arrived in the fields of "old Six-Mile," and an entire city was born. Factories, streets, and homes simultaneously rose out of what had been, only a few years earlier, farmland.

When deciding on a name, the Niedringhaus brothers chose to pay homage to what had made them the successful industrialists they were — graniteware. The result — Granite City.

Heavy industries were constructed in the new city, including Granite City Steel Company and the St. Louis Stamping Works.

Railroads criss-crossed the area to bring supplies to the mills. An unfortunate reality of heavy industry at the turn of the century was, however, injuries. It was not long before a hospital was needed for Granite City.

CONGRESSMAN MELVIN PRICE of this district looks over a copy of the Congressional Record in which he pays tribute to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, on its

"Granite City Hospital." When the hospital was finished in 1905, it opened under the auspices of the Lutheran Hospital Association.

The Rev. A. H. Almstedt was named president of the hospital, which included a nurses' training school. Doctor Robert Binney, for whom the present Binney Wing is named, was the first doctor to practice at Granite City Hospital, performing the first operation and delivering the first baby.

Although hopes were high for quality health care in Granite City, it did not take long before problems appeared. Most of the factory workers who came for treatment were poor, so much of the treatment given by Granite City Hospital was charitable — a noble tradition, perhaps, but unfortunately one that could not last forever.

Financial difficulties mounted quickly — so quickly that the hospital faced bankruptcy in 1910 and was forced to close, only five years after opening.

It seemed as though dreams of a hospital in Granite City had vanished almost overnight. All was not lost, however.

Some years earlier, in 1896, a Catholic priest,

Father Peter Kaenders, had opened a small hospital in Venice, just south of what later became Granite City. A man of boundless energy, Fr. Kaenders was also pastor of St. Mark's Church in Venice. When the heavy industry came to the area, many residents left Venice and moved to Granite City.

Fr. Kaenders' hospital, which he had named St. Elizabeth, had to close, but he did not lose his desire to found a hospital.

When Granite City Hospital closed in 1910, he saw a golden opportunity to reopen it and give his own dream of a Catholic hospital another chance.

He took Fr. Kaenders a year to raise enough money to buy the hospital in May 1911.

The following October, it was re-dedicated and re-named St. Elizabeth Hospital. But new ownership did not mean an end to financial hardship.

For the next ten years, until 1921, Fr. Kaenders saw St. Elizabeth alternate between years of relative prosperity and abject poverty.

He fought almost singlehandedly to keep the hospital open until 1921 when the Sisters of Divine Providence came to Granite City after learning of St. Elizabeth's distress; 1921 was barely three days old when they arrived to make still another attempt to get the hospital back on its feet.

The Sisters of Divine Providence bought the hospital from Fr. Kaenders in 1921, before actually arriving in Granite City. They had a massive cleanup job waiting for them when they got here, as well as an incredible lack of equipment and materials.

There were no linens and no X-ray machines, and lots of bills remained unpaid. By scrapping, saving and doing a lot of work themselves instead of hiring others, the sisters slowly began to turn things around. By the end of 1921, almost 600 patients had been admitted, but it was not until October 1922 that the hospital was "in the black," with a positive balance of $8.76.

Even after that, the hospital's finances continued to be rocky until 1923, when things settled down.

In September 1921, ten months after the Sisters of Divine Providence came to Granite City, Father Kaenders died. In March, he had retired as pastor of St. Mark's and had taken up permanent residence in the hospital.

In the end, age and the years of struggling to keep the hospital open caught up with him. He had the satisfaction, at least, of knowing that St. Elizabeth Hospital was going to make it.

Since then, the hospital has grown with new additions in 1931, 1958 and 1969. St. Elizabeth Medical Center is still growing, but buildings are not all that has expanded. Community programs have, too, to the extent that the term "hospital" does not adequately describe all the community-oriented programs in which the center is involved.

Community activities currently include immunization clinics, pre-natal classes, a "mobile meals" program (providing hot meals for Granite City residents unable to prepare their own) and an alcoholic rehabilitation program.

That is why, in 1979, the hospital's Diamond Jubilee year, its name has been changed to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Different names, perhaps, but a common goal — quality health care for the region. After 75 years, the future is bright.

Meet Tuesday on nutrition and health

The Madison County Local Impact Committee of the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency (HSA) will meet at the Lewis and Clark Lung Association, 523 N. Old St. Louis Road, Wood River, tomorrow at 7 p.m. The program will be about nutrition and health.

Ralph Yemm, chairman, has noted that all Madison County residents interested in addressing health issues in the county are welcome to attend. The meeting is free.

Yemm added, "The Local Impact Committee has been conducting a series of meetings concerning many health issues that affect the lives of all of us in Madison County."

"Recently, the Madison County committee has discussed emergency medical services, mental health services, child protection services, and dentistry."

The Madison County Local Impact Committee is a geographic subdivision of the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency.

Systems Agency, Clinton, St. Clair and Monroe counties in Illinois and St. Louis City, and St. Louis, St. Charles, Franklin and Jefferson counties in Missouri also have impact committees.

According to Yemm, the purpose of each local impact committee is to provide a grassroots mechanism for citizen participation and expression in both health planning and implementation.

The Madison County committee meets every month on the third Tuesday at 7 p.m. The site of the meeting moves throughout the county in order to encourage wide geographic representation.

For further information about the health committee, Quad-Cityans may contact Yemm at 254-5613 or Joe Mueller at the HSA at 1-314-241-5810.

Boat rules apply to owners, passengers

With warm weather upon us, many people will be spending as much time as they can outdoors, making use of the various private and public recreational resources in Illinois.

According to Department of Conservation figures, boating ranks high among favorite summer pastimes with nearly 250,000 watercraft registered within Illinois. With this in mind, the Illinois State Bar Association is reminding boat enthusiasts of various rules which the law provides.

Registration - Owners of pleasure motorboats and sailboats over 12 feet in length must apply to the Department of Conservation for a certificate number. If the application is approved, a number will be mailed to the applicant and will be valid for two years. This certificate must be available for inspection on the boat at all times when the boat is in operation.

Equipment - The law mandates that specific equipment be provided on various classes of boats. Examples of required equipment are:

-Life preservers which must U.S. Coast Guard standards. All boats, including canoes and kayaks, must have at least one such flotation device on board for each person.

-Lights are required on every boat when under way and at night. The type of light needed is determined by the particular size and style of the boat and, again, must meet U.S. Coast Guard standards.

-At least one fire extinguisher is required on board all motorboats, regardless of the size of the motor.

It is unlawful to operate any motorboat without a whistle, horn or other device which can produce a blast of two seconds or more and be audible for at least one-half mile.

Age of operator - As of Jan. 1, 1978, certain age limitations were placed on motorboat operation. No person under ten years of age may operate any motorboat in Illinois. Persons 10 and 11 must have an adult in the boat with them, and persons 12-17 must either have an adult in the boat with them or must have attended an eight-hour course in boat safety instruction.

Boat safety courses are given in many communities through schools, private clubs or other organizations by certified instructors from the Department of Conservation, American Red Cross, U.S. Coast Guard and U.S. Power Squadron.

The State Bar is urging boat owners to obtain comprehensive information pertaining to boat regulation from the Department of Conservation.

Charge man with assault

Louis J. Sharp, 55, of 2127 Illinois Ave., allegedly threatened an officer and attempted to strike him at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, when the policeman came to his residence following a report of a disturbance there.

The officer said he was talking with Mrs. Sharp when her husband walked up, ordered him from the property, then became abusive and threatened him, allegedly attempting to strike him.

Sharp was handcuffed and force was used to place him into a squad car. He was charged with assault and disorderly conduct and released on payment of $70 cash bond at 11 p.m. Thursday.

Earlier the same day, Sharp reported to police that someone had removed a $100 bill from a wallet on a cabinet near his bed.

Penalties may worsen steel's capital shortage

The steel industry's capital shortage "can only be aggravated" by proposed Environmental Protection Agency regulations "which will place heavy penalty payments on the industry over and above the actual costs of installing and operating pollution control equipment."

This was the concern expressed by Earle F. Young Jr., assistant vice president, American Iron and Steel Institute, at a public hearing this month called by the U.S. EPA on the proposed regulations on non-compliance penalties under Section 120 of the Clean Air Act.

He also pointed out that EPA's analysis of its proposed rules shows that steel would be far more severely impacted by them economically than any other manufacturing industry, with potential penalties of over a quarter billion dollars.

Young said his industry believes that in enacting this section of the Clean Air Act dealing with noncompliance penalties, Congress sought "to encourage and expedite the installation of pollution control facilities, rather than to provide an additional source of revenue to the government."

He said AISI believes it is the intent of Congress that full credit be given against penalty assessments for expenditures made to achieve compliance.

EPA's interpretation that only a small credit - rather than a dollar-for-dollar credit - be allowed "is contrary to the intent of Congress" and represents a "punitive penalty," he contended.

A particularly difficult problem for the steel industry arises with non-compliance penalties where "technology forcing" regulations are applied, according to Young, citing closing plants particularly.

Young called for "reasonableness and limitation" on penalties in technology-forcing situations.

Other points made by Young were:

- Questioning of the rule concerning calculation of penalties where facilities are being replaced.

- A call for incorporating in proposed regulations implementing Section 120 of the Clean Air Act the same policy of permitting credits against penalties for extra environmental spending that EPA has allowed under Section 113 of the Act.

Board members opposed to levee fund borrowing

The Metro-East Sanitary District Board is expected to be asked this week to approve additional borrowing to meet payrolls and Board President Russell Robinson is predicting a motion to borrow will be defeated by Madison County members of the board.

During the board's last meeting Thursday, Robinson and board members Walter David Bergfield, all of Granite City, criticized Wendell Wheadon, executive director of the sanitary district, for allowing employees to work when there is insufficient funds to pay their salaries.

Wheaton contended there is about $145,000 available in various accounts which can be used for salaries and Robinson disagreed, saying his studies of the district's financial condition show only about $18,000 available, which will be needed for employees' health and welfare commitments, utility bills, fuel and other necessary expenses. He added that $18,000 would not come close to meeting a regular district payroll.

Wheaton said he will bring necessary papers at the next meeting for $125,000 to $150,000 in tax anticipation warrants, "which we will refuse to sign," Robinson predicted.

He said Wheaton wanted to bring back many of the district's employees presently laid off and to hire some new ones for the sanitary district line sewer repair project. "I asked him where the money was going to come from. This project would use union people who, by contract, have to be paid every Friday, right on the spot. If we do not approve the anticipation warrants, they cannot be paid," Robinson noted.

Only the Madison County members of the board were present at Thursday's meeting. It was the second consecutive meeting the board members did not attend. "Evidently, they are boycotting us," the board president concluded.

Scout 'Cookaree' camporee planned

The Uniwah (Quad-City) District Boy Scout spring camporee theme this year is cooking, the one thing every scout should know how to do to survive, a spokesman commented today.

The event is being held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 1, 2 and 3; at Camp Warren Lewis, Goffrey, Ill.

The "Cookaree," as local scout officials have named it, is designed for patrols and individuals to demonstrate their best cooking techniques and share this experience with others.

Scouts will be judged on food preparation, originality, taste and appearance.

The Saturday lunch must be cooked in one pot.

Dinner that evening must include hot soup or a salad, meat, fish or fowl, a vegetable, a starch food or potato vegetable, baked biscuits and a beverage.

Individual competition will include baking bread, dessert, utensil-less cooking, musty unique dish and the most unique method of cooking.

The adult leaders will have their own contest called the "Anything Goes" event. The leaders will also be judged on food originality, taste and appearance.

The emporer committee would like to print a cook-book of menus from troops, adults and scouts. If they will turn in their favorite cooking technique or recipe we will print and distribute them at the event." William Koehn, emporer chairman, said.

Items for the cookbook should be sent to the Boy Scout Service Center, 2016 Belmont Ave., by Tuesday, May 29.

Koehn is being assisted by Craig Tarpoft and Ned Stevens, district executive for the Uniwah District.

DEATH AND DYING — CHALLENGE AND CHANGE IX: GRIEF

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the ninth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Death and Dying: Challenge and Change." In this article, psychiatrist Colin Murray Parkes of the London Hospital Medical College describes the various stages of grief. This series was written for COURSES BY NEWSPAPER, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

By COLIN MURRAY PARKES

"All of a sudden I felt there was nothing more to do. There's nothing. I'm so confused, so lost."

"...All of a sudden, he passed away and I couldn't do anything more for him. The ambitions, hopes, and inspirations I had before seemed no longer to hang on to? ...I feel like somebody that just lost their arm or a leg or something. I just have to live without it."

"[Interview with a 22-year-old woman, six weeks after the death of her husband from cancer.]

Grief is the reaction to the loss of a person or thing to which we have become attached. It is a natural and normal reaction that has a natural form and sequence.

It is, at times, intensely painful and frightening, and it may therefore be avoided, repressed, or distorted out of its natural form.

Psychiatric search indicates that attempts to deny or avoid grief are potentially harmful. It is important for people who suffer a loss to accept the need to grieve and for those who are in a position to help to encourage the bereaved to express their grief.

The reaction to a loss by death usually follows a predictable pattern, in the course of which the bereaved person makes real inside himself a situation that is already an established reality outside himself.

This process of realization and the acceptance of the full implications of the loss take time. "I can't believe it's true; it doesn't seem real."

NUMBNESS. The immediate reaction to death, particularly sudden or unexpected death, is likely to be one of shock or numbness. For a few hours or days, the bereaved remain in a dazed state in which they can hardly react emotionally at all.

PINING. Numbness is followed by the onset of the pangs of grief, episodes of painful pining for the dead person. These reflect an intense wish to get the dead person back in some form or other.

Although the struggle to seek out the dead person is ultimately futile, this does not stop people from going to places and treasuring objects associated with the deceased.

Nor does it prevent the survivors from going over in their minds the events that led up to the loss as it is, even now, they could discover what went wrong and put it aright.

At times, bereaved people will even experience a strong sense of the presence of the deceased. Signs and sounds may be misinterpreted as indicating his or her return. And vivid dreams occurring in a half-waking state may be recalled as apparitions: "I looked at him and he opened his mouth. I said, 'He's alive, he's alive ...' When I woke up, I wondered where I was."

Since pangs of grief are precipitated by any thought or situation that brings the dead person to mind, some people attempt to avoid the pain of grief by getting rid of everything that reminds them of the loss and by filling their lives with frenzied activities to distract their thoughts.

Psychiatric evidence indicates that, far from preventing grief, such attempts only postpone it.

When grief that has been delayed in this way does begin to emerge, it will be more painful and disruptive than grief that has been fully expressed at the time of the loss.

DEJECTION. As time passes, the intensity and frequency of the pangs of grief gradually diminish, and the bereaved experiences longer and longer periods of apathy and dejection.

At this time, the bereaved has given up the struggle to regain the dead person and has become fully aware of the gap between the world that had been taken for granted up to this time, and the world that now exists. Life seems to have lost its meaning and to have become empty and flat.

RECOVERY.

Only when unrealistic hopes have been relinquished do new beginnings emerge. Little by little, the appetites return and people start to discover the world that is now possible for them.

Not that grief has an ending. Even years after a loss, some reminder can again evoke a pang of grief or an episode of pining.

But such pangs are less severe than in the past. And the memories of the dead person, though painful, become mixed with nostalgic pleasure. Grieving is a way of relearning the world. It takes time, and because no two relationships are alike and no two worlds the same, each person goes through it in his or her own way.

For some, the shock of a sudden, unexpected bereavement may trigger severe and destructive grief. For others, the timely and peaceful death of an aged parent may give little cause for grief.

Parents usually feel responsible for anything that happens to their children, and therefore the death of a child often causes a particularly painful form of grief.

For people who are liable to anger and self-reproach, there is a risk of becoming isolated by bitterness or self-punishment ("I never loved him enough when he was alive; now I will try to make up for this by grieving for him forever").

People who have become over-reliant on the deceased may find it hard to believe that they can survive without his or her support. "How am I alive after witnessing what I have done?" wrote Queen Victoria after the death of Prince Albert, "I who prayed daily that we might die together and I never survive him."

In such cases, grieving can become an excuse for withdrawal from responsibility, for the mourner has been permitted by society to relinquish, for a while, obligations to work and accustomed roles in the world. Grief may be complicated in a variety of ways, and some people need the help of a doctor or counselor when physical or psychological problems occur.

There is even evidence actually die of a "broken heart," though this is unlikely unless they already have serious heart disease.

Bereavement may, however, aggravate a pre-existing physical or mental disorder. Or it may give rise to fresh problems, pathological reactions, which are themselves distortions of the normal process of grieving.

The commonest of these are delayed reactions, chronic reactions, and identification syndromes, in which the bereaved develop a hypochondriacal illness closely resembling the illness suffered by the deceased. Psychiatric treatments for these conditions are usually successful.

There are several ways in which we can all help bereaved people to grieve in a positive and healthy manner.

In the early weeks, they may need encouragement to express the feelings of distress, anger, bewilderment and shame which are natural emotions; they are not signs of mental illness or stupidity as is frequently feared.

Men in particular often feel that tears are unmanly, and they should realize that grief is a job of work that must be done.

Anxiety and tension are often a cause of minor physical symptoms, but this is no reason to demand tranquilizers and sedatives. Such efforts to avoid the pain of grief or to dull the senses can sometimes delay or distort the grief response, to the detriment of the survivor.

In the longer term, bereaved people may also need permission to stop grieving and reassurance that their duty to the dead is done.

To the bereaved, the world may seem very insecure. But with support from friends, there is no reason why those who confront the reality of loss should not gradually find their way through to a new and rewarding life.

Vast economic, transportation impact by new lock, dam

Scheduled construction of a new Lock and Dam 26 two miles downstream from the present Alton locks and dam will enhance local waterway activity on a long-range basis, and the shorter-range economic stimulus from construction work also will be substantial.

An indication of the scope of the project will be given at a public hearing at 1:30 p.m. June 6 at the Rowdine Inn, Jefferson and Market streets, St. Louis, on the environmental effects of discharge of dredged and fill materials into navigable waters.

Initial work will be on six gates of the new dam, starting from the Missouri (St. Charles County) shore and extending 1,000 feet into the Mississippi River. In order for there to be dry conditions for this task, a cofferdam will be constructed around the area, consisting of sandfilled sheet pile (steel) cells in the river and earthen embankment on the shore.

On Missouri land will be a spur dike, an access road and an overflow section of dam 2,000 feet long. To reduce stream velocity and scour damage, an area along the Illinois (Madison County) shore will be cut back by dredging and the new bank will be protected by a blanket of riprap stone for a distance of 4,800 feet. Development of a recreation area on Ellis Island will be started.

One gate of the dam and a 1,200x110-foot lock will be constructed during the second stage, requiring another cofferdam of sandfilled sheet pile cells. And there will be work on a proposed recreation area on the Missouri shore downstream of Highway 67.

Completion will include the remaining part of the dam, two gates, near the Illinois shore, necessitating a third cofferdam with an additional 600,000 tons of riprap and 135,000 tons of derrick stone. Temporary deposits will amount to 1,600,000 cubic yards.

The economic project life of the replacement lock and dam is 50 years. The revetment, protection dike and earthen embankment are expected to last at least that long and probably longer with some maintenance work carried out.

Permanent placement of dredged and fill materials will total 3,800,000 cubic yards, with an additional 600,000 tons of riprap and 135,000 tons of derrick stone. Temporary deposits will amount to 1,600,000 cubic yards.

Unmatched record of public service by Eulalia Hotz

Quadrants along with other Missourians and Americans mourn the death of the 1942-74 Madison County clerk, Miss Eulalia Hotz, whose unflinching effort, cheerful and dedicated service were of immense benefit to the county government.

Her father, Joseph Hotz, was elected as the county clerk in 1922 and held the office until his death in 1933. Her brother, Norbert Hotz, succeeded his late father and continued in the office until her election in 1942. The more than half century of family participation in the elective office is unique, and Miss Hotz was the first woman elected to a Madison County office.

Consistently a top vote-getter,

Eulalia Hotz was able to blend wide popularity with highly effective performance of the work despite a steady proliferation of the duties as election, taxation and other laws became more complex.

She was widely recognized for innovations in broadening voter registration through designation of additional centers and use of mobile units. Her various offices included the presidency of the Illinois Association of County Officials, and her volunteer activities included work with the St. Elizabeth Hospital Auxiliary here.

Miss Hotz will be missed. She will be remembered as a public servant in the best sense of those words.

Closing arguments in murder trial expected

The capital murder trial of Mrs. Vicky Rowen Williams, 24, Overland, Mo., is expected to close early this week as attorneys for both sides prepare to give their closing arguments today.

Mrs. Williams is accused of contracting with several men, including a Granite City man, to kill her husband, Gilbert Williams, 27, who was slain Feb. 4, while on duty as a security guard for the Spirit of St. Louis.

Army Spec. 4 Michael E. Shane, 30, of Granite City, who has pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the case, testified Friday that he watched while Terry Lee Melroy, 26, Bel Ridge, fired several shots from a 22-caliber pistol into the truck Mr. Williams was driving at the airport.

Shane also testified that after Mr. Williams had been shot, Melroy ordered Shane to break out the truck's windows, which he did. Melroy then fired more shots into the cab of the truck, it was asserted.

Thompson, said Friday, he said Rantoul is also under consideration. By a voice vote, the State Senate approved House-passed resolution calling on legislators to support state agency attempts to lure air freight carriers.

The U.S. House on Thursday afternoon defeated a resolution to force a standby gasoline rationing plan, under which Illinoisans would have been allocated rations less than 100 miles from the coast. Congressmen Melvin Price and Paul Simon were among those favoring the proposal.

Gayle Franzen, state prison system director, said Friday the state has not yet been able to regain control of the Stateville prison from gangs of inmates.

Gov. James R. Thompson will lead a delegation to Japan starting Friday in an effort to attract Japanese firms to Illinois. Among the proposals is a Datsun auto assembly plant suggested for the local community.

Legislation intended to empower the state to force a fairer property tax administration was approved Friday by the Illinois House Revenue Committee. The bill calls for the state to reassess property when an assessor has been grossly inaccurate.

With the Southern Illinois University chancellor last week, the board of trustees of the SIU board will hold a special meeting May 23 to reduce the number of candidates for the position of chancellor to 12. Those still in the running are to be interviewed June 1, 2 and 3.

News notes

Thompson, said Friday. He said Rantoul is also under consideration. ## Nighthosian quits state's attorney post Casper Nighthosian has resigned his post as an assistant Madison County state's attorney, indicating his preference to keep his position at Madison city attorney.

Nighthosian notified State Attorney William G. Byron Friday that he does not agree with an attorney general's opinion that the two jobs are in conflict, but will resign the state's attorney's post.

The assistant State's Attorney Don Smith, who also is attorney for Wood River Township, has agreed to resign his post as state's attorney, retaining his office.

Illinoisans surprise Australian champs 3-1

GRANITE CITY — Using a two-goal second half, the Southern Illinois Select Soccer Team surprised the Australian Under-16 National champions 3-1 at Granite City South High Friday night in the first international soccer game ever played in Granite City. It was the first loss for the Australians in four games they have played in this country.

The game had a definite Granite City flair about it from beginning to end. Players with names familiar to GC soccer fans dotted the Southern Illinois lineup. Names like David Fernandez, Randy DeRusse, Jeff Tinsley and Jack Burnett from the state champion Granite City South team, Bob Batey, Tony Pierce, Jeff DeMott, Mike Robertson and Dennis Krystopa from GC North. In addition, players from Collinsville, Highland, O'Fallon, Alton, Belleville East, Edwardsville, Belleville West and Cahokia made up the Illinois lineup.

The Southern Illinois Select team that faced the Aussies was made up of players 18 years old or younger.

After treating their foreign guests like kings all day in the Steel City, the Granite Cityans shocked them with an early goal and never let up. Robertson scored the first goal of the game after taking an assist from Tinsley. The goal came out of a mass of bodies in front of Australian goalie Jeremy English. All he could do was watch helplessly. The Illinoisans were overjoyed at having scored against Australia... something a powerful select team from St. Louis was not able to do two nights earlier in a 6-0 defeat. Australian Coach Roger Smith was not surprised, however, at the way his team — or the Illinoisans — performed. "I'm not surprised," he said. "Not at all. These Americans played exceptionally well tonight. We were tired, you know. Going from airplane to (Continued on Page 23)"

Friends... they had some in GC

By PETE HAYES

GRANITE CITY — There was a soccer game here Friday night. A pretty big soccer game. There was an upset here Friday night in that same soccer game. A pretty big upset.

Anytime a group of players from a select team can hand together in a matter of a few weeks and defeat a national championship squad that's been playing together for three years, it's a pretty big upset.

But believe it or not, the soccer game was secondary when the Southern Illinois Select Team of ages 18 and under defeated the Australian 16 and under national champs 3-1 at Granite City South's football stadium. It was international friendship that came to the fore.

The Australian team, which had been in the St. Louis area since last Wednesday, was treated like a group of kings when it arrived in Granite City Friday morning. First, the Australians were greeted at City Hall by Mayor Paul Schulz. Then, they were given a tour of the jail where a couple were "locked-up" for fun, the First Granite City National Bank, Granite City Steel and the Nestle Plant. They were given a police escort through town.

After the day's activities, the foreign guests were treated to a dinner at the Granite City Township Hall (along with their American counterparts). At the dinner, mayors from surrounding towns, either in person or by representative, Madison County Chairman Nelson Hagnauer, St. Clair County Chairman and John Somers, the president of the Illinois Youth Soccer Association all presented the Aussies with various plaques, certificates and other mementos of their visit to Southern Illinois. They were made honorary citizens of Granite City, Madison County, Cahokia, Belleville and St. Clair County. The First National Bank gave each Australian player a two-dollar bill.

In turn, Australian Coach Roger Smith presented each member of the American contingent with a commemorative banner of the visit, a ribbon and a miniature Kowla bear, the national symbol of Australia. The Australians and the Americans sat with each other and ate with each other. They conversed — with each taking some time to adjust to the "funny accents."

What was the main topic of conversation at many of the tables? Was it international affairs? Was it the differences in soccer strategies? No. It was whether or not there was a McDonald's restaurant in one's home town, or what the number-one rock record is in one's home country.

After the game, the Aussies split up to travel to the homes of players on the Southern Illinois team to spend the night.

There were Aussies in places like Alton, Granite City, Edwardsville, Cahokia and Belleville. But they really weren't strangers anymore. Soccer had bridged the gap.

BULLETIN

South's game which was scheduled for 4 p.m. today at New Athens has been switched to South's field because of wet grounds at New Athens.

The Warriors were busy, offensively up and down the lineup. Shortstop Kevin Sykes had three singles and scored two runs. Second baseman Bob Stegmeier had three hits, including a triple and scored three times. Designated hitter Jim Lewis and right fielder Ambush both doubled and scored. And third baseman Jeff Parker and first baseman Jeff Trotter both tripled and scored twice.

While his teammates were pointing the ball, pitcher Jojo Vretnic was running through the Orphan batting order. In his four innings of work, Vretnic allowed only one Orphan to reach base, when Centralia catcher Todd Gierston singled in the third.

Centralia scored its three runs in the sixth, with a triple by J. R. Jones, the Orphans' center fielder, with the bases loaded.

"It was good to see us tee off," Champion said. "We had some breaks, but basically, we just hit the ball."

At the start of the afternoon, the sky was overcast and the air chilly. But as the second game approached, the sun broke through and warmed the field.

As the temperature rose, the Warriors' bats got even hotter. South waited until the second inning to start, but once started, the Warriors didn't stop.

In the second game, South's pitchers Dave Lindsey, Rich Klobe and Al Yount, combined for a three-hitter, while the Warriors hammered out 18 hits.

SAME OLD STORY. Scoring runs got to be almost monotonous Saturday for the Granite City South baseball team against Centralia. The Warriors exploded to blast the visiting Orphans 14-3 and 15-3. Here, South's Bob Stegmeier gets ready to cross the plate in front of Centralia catcher Barrow. (Photo by Jim Wolfe)

GRANITE CITY — Granite City North completed a busy and productive weekend of baseball with three wins and one loss.

The wins came in a single game against Greenville, Thursday, North won 11-0, and in the first half of a double-header on Saturday against Belleville West.

North split the twin-bill, losing 5-3 in the first game, and winning the night-cap, 7-1.

In the first game against West, North committed four errors, an uncommonly high amount from the usual dependable defense of the Steelers.

"This is the first time all year that our defense has let us down," North's coach Bob Stegmeier said. "But these things happen."

North's defensive lapse hurt especially in the first inning, when Belleville scored three runs on two hits and two errors. The Maroons scored single runs in the fourth and fifth, and scattered nine hits over the seven innings.

North could put together only three runs. It scored once in the first, and twice more in the fourth. In all, the usually heavy hitting Steelers were held to only five hits.

"I wasn't too upset with our hitting," Stegmeier said. "I'm realistic enough to know that when you face a ball club as good as Belleville West, your not going to score 10 or 12 runs and get 12 hits."

In the second game against West, North's hitters fared better. The Steelers collected their seven runs on six hits, including Tom Greco's three-for-four performance producing three RBIs.

The Steelers scored twice in the first two innings, one in the third, and again in the fourth and sixth.

While the Steelers were performing this offensive turn-around, North's pitchers were holding Belleville's potent bats in check.

Russ Chappell, who started the second game for the Steelers, went three and two-thirds innings, giving up only one hit, and an unearned run. Greg Faulkner relieved Chappell in the fourth, and blanked the Maroons the rest of the way.

Alton netters down South, 4-3

'Football'—Granite style

By PETE HAYES

GRANITE CITY: They came to play "football." And that's exactly what they played. International football, that is.

"They" were the Australian Under-16 National Champions. The "football" they came to Granite City to play wasn't exactly the same type played by the likes of Fran Tarkenton or the Green Bay Packers.

It was soccer. The Aussies had arrived for a tour of this country four days earlier in Los Angeles. They had played three games. They had won three games. But that all changed Friday night at Granite City South's football field when the Southern Illinois Under-16 Select Team shocked its foreign guests 3-1.

The real story wasn't the Southern Illinois team. And it wasn't the Australia team. It was the impressions left on both by each other.

How did the Aussies react to losing their first game in this country? Were they upset? Were they bitter? Not at all. If anything, they gave a message in true sportsmanship that could have been copied by many of the young people in the crowd.

JEREMY ENGLISH, the Australian goalie, said win or lose, the day was worth the effort. He was referring to a grand tour of the city, a dinner in the team's honor and a police escort to the stadium on an old-fashioned fire engine. "I'm tired," said the 15-year-old goalie. "But it's been worth it. I was so surprised by our stay tonight as I was by the way the Americans played."

"The thing that impresses me the most," he added in his cockney accent, "is the friendliness of this country. Not only here, but in L.A. and in St. Louis. It's been really great."

Darren Taylor, an Australian team member who did not play because of an injured arm, said he was a bit surprised by his team's loss. "We were on a winning streak," he said. "But the Americans had it on tonight."

English, who hails from Gosford, Australia, and Taylor, from New Castle, said there was also something about this country that impressed them. Its size. "Our country is large," said Taylor. "But this one is so large, it's amazing. It's like two or three different countries rolled up in one."

THE AMERICAN players were impressed by the finesse of the Aussies. "They moved the ball around the field much better than we did," said Bob Batey, who hails from Granite City North. "They chip the ball right where they want it."

But the Southern Illinoisans weren't surprised by the fact that they had won. "We sort of knew we could give them a good game and stay with them," said goalie Tony Pierce, also from GC North. "You never really know for sure if you're going to win or not, but I had a good feeling about this one."

Pierce kept the Americans in the game in the early going with some nifty saves.

JEFF DeMOTT, from North, said he knew his team would do well once he found out it was more aggressive. "Our aggressiveness and physical play did it for us," he said.

David Fernandez, from Granite City South, was elated after the game. He joked with Pierce about the only goal scored by the Aussies. "Don't blame Pierce," he laughed. "I'll take the blame. But it didn't matter anyway. We won."

Darren Jones, from Alton, said he was impressed with the communication of the Australian team. "They talk on the field all the time," he said. "They move the ball very well and seem to know right where their teammate's hoping to be before he gets there."

AUSTRALIAN Coach Roger Smith, in a speech at the dinner before the game, fought back tears when he thanked the people of Granite City and surrounding area for the hospitality shown his team. "It's something we'll remember all our lives," he said. "There are just too many people to try and thank. I just hope some day we can repay you by hosting you in our country and showing you the same hospitality."

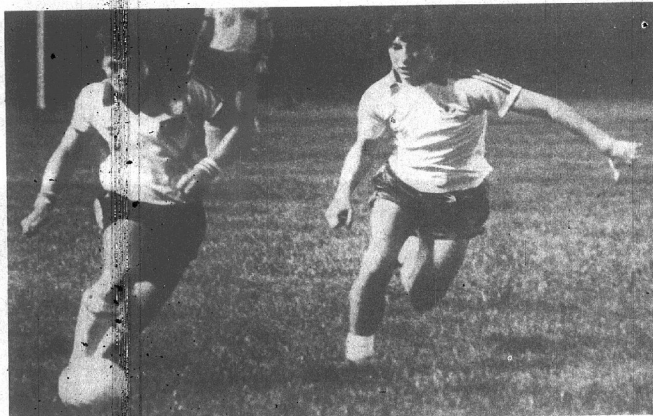

There is a group of young men about 275 miles south of Chicago, Ill., USA that might just take you up on that, coach.

Illinoisans

airplane. Playing four games in five days. But that's no excuse at all. I give full credit to Illinois. There was one particular thing about the style of play of the Illinois team that stood out in Smith's mind. "They're very physical. We were dropping like flies out there for a while. In Australia, the refs would be pulling them up about every 30 seconds. But we've played physical teams before. I'm not making any excuses. Tonight, the Americans were the better team. No doubt."

Australia tied the score at 1-1 on a goal by Gary Munguerra with 15:06 remaining in the first half. North's Pierce, who kept the Americans in the game with some brilliant early saves in goal, explained what happened. "I was standing over to the left like this," he said, giving a demonstration. "The corner kick by Australia came over this way and I thought David (Fernandez) was going to touch it back to me and I'd kick it out. But we couldn't make connections."

Southern Illinois got its last two goals from a kid who didn't even know he was going to be on the team until earlier in the week. Collinsville's Robby Mann scored the winning and insurance goals in the second half. Only 15 years old, Mann caught the eye of Mann and was given a spot on the team. His first goal came from an assist by Belleville West's Mike Barbachian and the second came from a pass from DeRousse.
